Known for his engaging personality, down-home writing style and self-effacing humor, Earl Golding began his career as a sportswriter at the Tribune-Herald in 1949 and started covering outdoors sports the following year.

In 1955, during an era when recreational activities in Texas were on the rise at newly created reservoirs, Golding hatched the idea of a "bass competition" to determine the best fisherman in Texas. Held by invitation-only at the recently impounded Lake Whitney, it was the first competitive bass tournament in the state and the first known competitive bass tournament in the nation. A total of 75 anglers were invited and 73 showed up to fish.

Golding noted in a 1998 interview, "When word got out about the 1955 event, we got letters from anglers all over the state saying they wanted to be involved. So the next year, we decided to make it the Texas State Bass Tournament." The Tournament has continued its tradition every year since, and for his vision, Golding was inducted into both the Texas State Bass Tournament Hall of Fame and the Texas Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame in 1998. In 2016, Golding's creation, The Texas State Bass Tournament, was also inducted into the Texas Freshwater Fishing Hall-of-Fame.

Over the years, the State Tournament added various competitive Divisions to encourage family and youth participation. As a result, the field today includes everyone from young anglers participating in their first tournament to seasoned veterans that are among the best in the state. Bucking the trend to lure anglers with high dollar prizes, the State Tournament draws contestants year-in and year-out with only one goal in mind: to join the ranks of other legendary anglers who have claimed the title as "Texas State Bass Fishing Champion".
